Behaviour Management Review Committee
The College established a Behaviour Management Review Committee to maintain and improve the means by which we identify and communicate incidents of poor choices in student behaviour. The Committee has met regularly this term to review our current protocols and make recommendations for improvements.

The following changes will be implemented in Term Two:

Reflection Room
The Reflection Room offers a time and place for students to reflect on poor choices for behaviour, under the supervision of a teacher. Students are engaged in a written task to encourage critical thinking and planning for positive changes in the future. Discussion with the teacher also allows for consideration of the relationships that may need to be repaired as a result of poor choices and what steps can be taken to restore these.

From Term 2, this room will be supervised on a daily basis at first break. This will allow students the opportunity to attend as a matter of priority to address poor choices and move forward in a positive manner with little delay.

Primary School – Tracking of poor choices
The staff is confident that consequences for minor breaches in behaviour are well managed across the College, with teachers able to take into account the individual circumstances of a situation and consider the natural consequence that best addresses poor choices in behaviour. However, the tracking of possible patterns of behaviour needs improvement. In order to address this, a summary page will be included in the Primary Student Diary from the start of next term. This page will record minor breaches of behaviour so that any persistent behaviour is easily identified and can be addressed. This recording page has been modelled on the Middle and Senior School Diary to ensure consistency across the College (a sample of this page is attached).

The Review Committee will next review processes to recognise and celebrate positive behaviour in the Middle and Senior School students.

As with all aspects of your son’s education at MBBC, home-school communication is vital, so if you are in doubt about why something has occurred, or would like any further information, please contact your son’s Class/Form/House teacher in the first instance.
